7	Two-hour meeting with parents of a current high school junior to discuss college application process This fall, Diane Coutu has helped six students through this rite of passage, and she offers some lessons learned. Adolescents rarely know which life stories make terrific essays, so we'll discuss what makes a great narrative. If your student is applying for early admission (November 1), it's often very stressful to start the application process in the fall. We'll discuss what he or she can do over the summer. We'll also discuss some ways to gather information on the college tour so your kid doesn't panic when the college application says, "Why Wesleyan? Why you?" This, and much more, including mastering the Common Application, can be yours for the winning bid! Value $500. Minimum Bid $125. Max number of winning bids: 2	Diane Coutu
